Dated: February, 01, 2020

This initiative is in line with Rishihood University philosophy of "Education for Impact", in collaboration with Jaipur Rugs Foundation have designed a community development project Kaarigari, for rural reconstruction. This project will be executed under the mentor ship of Dean School Of Creativity Prof. Manika Walia.

Objective is to bring forth the incredible skills and talents of rural community. The project is also an initiative in giving a new lease of life to some relatively unknown varieties of indigenous fabrics and hand embroideries.

School of Creativity will mentor young girls from Jaipur Rugs Foundation's Hunarshala, Aspura Village, Rajasthan, towards apparel design. Skills like motive development, surface ornamentation, pattern making and garnet construction will be taught.

Students will be visiting the Rishihood University campus to understand the urban culture and how garment industry functions. Further the final outcome of this entire project will take the form of fashion show exhibiting the collections designed and developed by young girls of Hunarshala.
