Introduction to Avadhāna
Avadhāna is a subset of Sahitya avadhāna, an Indian performing art, rooted in classical poetry and extensive verbiage. It involves eight questions (prachinas) posing challenges to a performer (avadhāni). The primary meaning of avadhāna is concentration, and an avadhāni is a person who possesses it to a remarkable degree. Since the performer must compose verses alongside solving a magic square and engaging in a conundrum, the art form is a veritable test to the ability to multitask, think laterally and manage various 'issues'. Several other components are designed to break the performer's concentration, or exercise his avadhāna and creative imagination to the maximum.

Planning and Policy Making in a VUCA World

Rishihood University students, staff, and faculty heard from Shri Sanjeev Sanyal, Member of the Economic Advisory Council to the Prime Minister of India. He emphasized the need to hedge against the worst and to take forecasts with a grain of salt. The lecture provided an inspiring look at planning and policymaking in today's ever-changing world.

How Do You Fix Cellphone Addiction's Lasting Impact On Children?

Cell phone addiction or blue light addiction is on the rise everywhere. The screen is set to follow us around. This increase in screen time impacts children's learning and dealing with other life situations, even though technology brings us ease in work and access to unlimited knowledge. Children are easy targets as their minds are not yet fully developed to handle such conduct due to a lack of impulse control and emotional maturity.

India must become a knowledge republic as it charts its way ahead

SURESH PRABHU & SAHIL AGGARWAL, PUBLISHED IN THE MINT

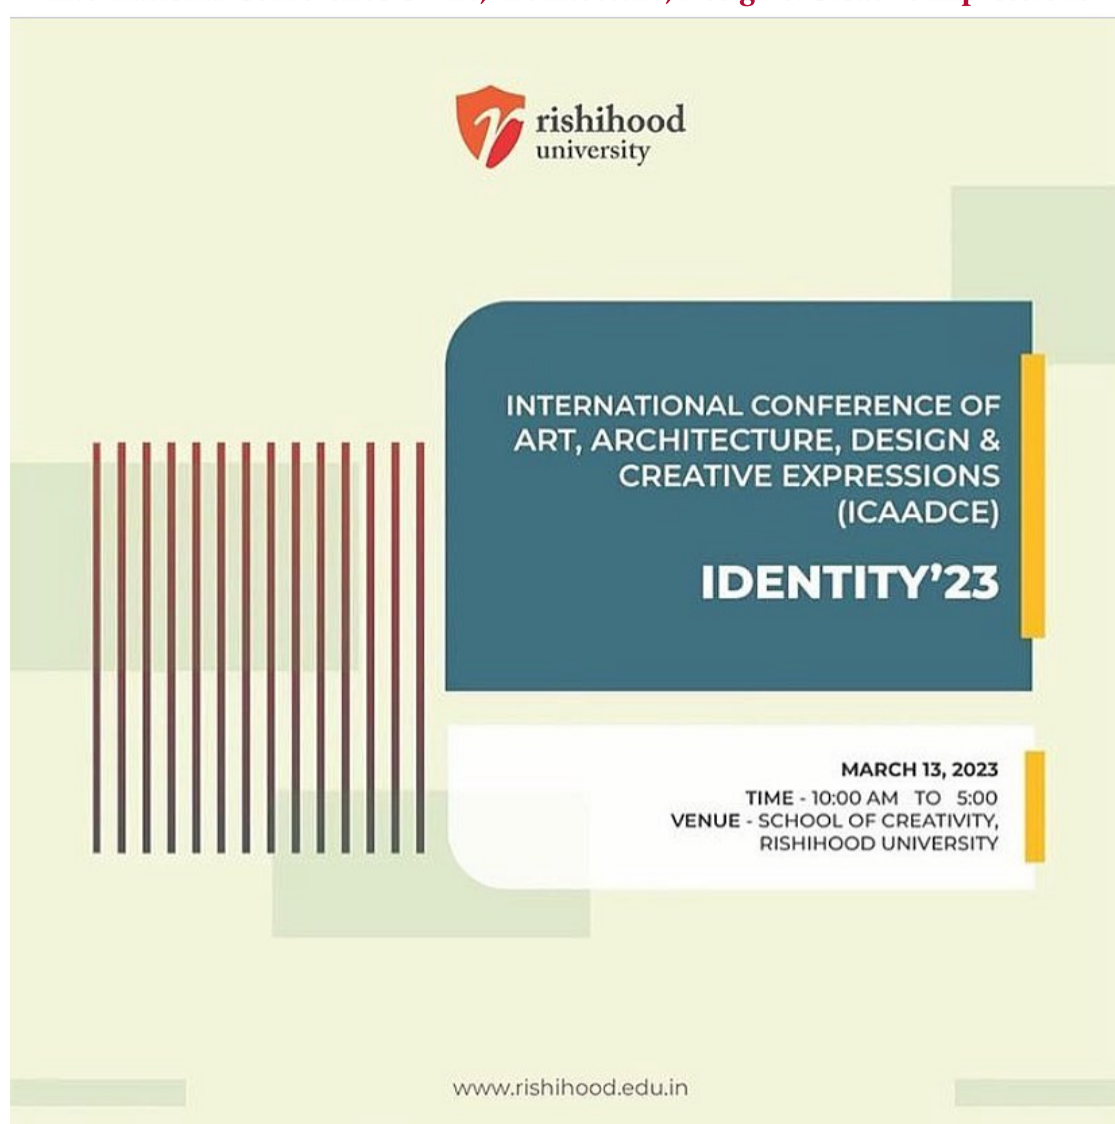

Truth and learning have always been important in Indian culture. Teachers, gurus, and knowledgeable people have a unique place in the Hindu heart. In contrast to many other countries, typical Indian parents consider education as a passport to professional success and save significantly to fund their children's studies. The reverence for knowledge in Indian society should be recognised and harnessed in governance and nation-building. India is a society of knowledge.

Our civilizational past is talking to our modern nation. We are at a crossroads again. We must choose our path and move ahead.
